1. 研究成果の概要 This research was originally designed to examine student body governance, but prior to this, there needed to be a foundation set for handling sensitive interviews. Students have been interviewed and consent has been given for all included interviews, but the priority was given to the creation of a foundational methodology for doing such sensitive interviews in Japan of small student organization groups. After significant review of existing methodological options in anthropology and other research done in Japan that used ethnographic research methods. The result being that it is advisable to use a mixed but flexible methodological approach based on the American Anthropological Association and JSPS's methodological requirements for such research in Japan. While further research will be done next year, this provided enough results for a presentation to be given at a local higher education conference at Lakeland University in Japan and paper to be submitted to a journal on international students called COISAN. The paper was peer-reviewed and after edits, has been accepted. 2. 著書・論文・学会発表等（査読の有無及び海外研究機関等の研究者との国際共著論文がある場合は必ず記載） 【論文（査読あり）】 Partial results of the research were published peer-reviewed in COISAN ジャーナル第 24 号投稿論文 “The Methodological Imperatives of Qualitative: Research on English-taught Programs at Japanese Universities(日本の大学院 ETP における質的研究法の問題点と挑戦)”, in press. 【著書・論文（査読なし）】 【学会発表等】 Results were presented at the Seventh Annual Conference on Global Higher Education at Lakeland University in Japan. Useful feedback was received for advancing the research to the next step. The schedule of presentations can be found here: https://conference.luj.tokyo/schedule.html

4. その他の特筆すべき事項 (表彰、研究資金の受入状況等)

This research has helped begin the initial foundation for a methodological and ethical approach to examining student voice at universities. It will now serve as a foundation for the next stage of the research which will delve into international graduate student representation at Japanese universities.
